

MANUFACTURING PRACTICE GROUP

Optimizing your opportunities as we minimize your exposure.

In a world where everything goes everywhere, our global perspective has its advantages.

The world continues to shrink. Today, manufacturers of every size and description are taking advantage of this reality by sourcing, fabricating, assembling and shipping all over the planet. When your “territory” is this large, however, your risk is correspondingly outsized. Example: Depending upon where your product ends up, you may – or may not – be covered for product liability. Then there are supply-chain issues: When your supplier burns to the ground, are you indemnified against business interruption, including loss of profit? At The Hilb Group, we know that manufacturers of every size and description are increasingly global suppliers – whether they know it or not. In response, we’ve built our Manufacturing Practice Group to meet your every contingency, both home and away.

For not-so-friendly corners of the globe.

The Hilb Group is expert in writing Kidnap and Ransom policies to cover corporate executives.
